Objective

To work in a creative environment, helping an organization project the image that suits their vision, by using strong design and illustrative skills.

Profile

Being a graphic designer for the London Free Press gave me a great foundation in print production and the ability to work under tight deadlines. Working in collaboration with teams and on my own I have extensive experience creating concepts and finished art based on client expectations, while ensuring that all designs are correct and work across all channels, taking into consideration reproduction needs as well as aesthetic requirements. I am able to work through from concept to completion, coordinating with appropriate team members and management to ensure deadlines are met.

I have also continued to independently develop my skills, including those in illustration, and web design, both by going back to school and by finding resources online. As a practicing fine artist, I have been developing my drawing skills for many years, have always been highly self motivated, and have the ability to work well independently or as part of a team. I have a 'can-do' attitude and a great willingness to learn new skills and keep on top of tech news and developments. I have always had excellent problem solving skills and can shift priorities as needed.

As a fine artist, I have experience using MailChimp for e-mail campaigns and with social media, creating and editing content as needed. As a seasoned graphic designer, I have honed my skills in Photoshop and Illustrator and can create any type of artwork needed for the job. I have worked on a wide variety of projects from design and layout of magazines and newspapers to brochures, advertising, logos, spot artwork and illustration, web animation. and web design. I have created artwork for games and even done some rudimentary coding for such. Collaboratively, I have worked on French versions of point of sale sheets, making sure all copy was accurate and correct and re-created product photography images in Photoshop from scans of packaging, making them appear to be a product setup. I have experience with wordpress, basic HTML and CSS. Working in a fast paced environment is nothing new for me, and I am able to be flexible and re-prioritize while keeping my cool even in a challenging environment.
